

What is the fund's objective?

The objective of the STANLIB Index Fund is to track the Shareholder Weighted All Share Index (SWIX) as closely as possible.

What does the fund invest in?

The fund invests in the constituents of the SWIX Index and aims to replicate the Index by holding the same weightings of these constituents. The SWIX Index is an equity Index of large, mid and small-sized companies; listed on the JSE. Shareholder weighted indices reduce constituent weights by foreign shareholdings and therefore represent South African investors.

The fund is rebalanced quarterly and therefore has minimal trading costs. The fund may also hold a small portion in cash instruments and listed derivatives to effect efficient portfolio management.

What possible risks are associated with this fund?

Risks include general market conditions and market volatility, company specific risk, economic and political risk.

The Total Expense Ratio (TER) is the charges paid by the portfolio for management and operating costs incurred in the administration of the fund. The TER is expressed as a percentage of the daily net asset value (NAV) of the fund and calculated over three years on an annualised basis. A higher TER does not necessarily imply a poor return, neither does a lower TER imply a good return.

The Total Investment Charges (TIC) of the fund is the TER and TC combined.

Fund review

The last quarterly review of the FTSE JSE Shareholder Weighted Index saw the inclusion of Long 4 Life Ltd, Hospital Property Fund B and Montauk Holdings Ltd amongst others to the index while Steinhoff Africa Retail Ltd, Choppies Enterprises Ltd and Novus Holdings Ltd left the index. The fund has been repositioned for this change. The fund performed in line with the Index this quarter. The Fund benefitted from its exposure to Standard Bank, Shoprite and Anglo American, while its exposure to Naspers, Nepi Rockcastle and Resilient detracted from performance.

Market overview

The global recovery across China, Japan, Europe and the United States continued to support commodity prices and emerging market currencies in the first quarter of 2018. The Fed hiked rates by 25 basis points in their March meeting and there was growing tension in world trade between the US and China. Higher rates and potential for a trade war triggered volatility in global equity markets which posted a loss of 1.15% (MSCI World) over the quarter. In South Africa, Cyril Ramaphosa was sworn in as South Africa's president and his State of the Nation address was favourably received. Over the quarter local property fell 19.61% (SAPY) and equities were down 5.97% (ALSI). Losses in equities were driven by poor performance of rand hedge stocks, and by a sell-off in Naspers, following the announcement it would be trimming its shareholding in Tencent Holdings. Property's decline was due to losses in the Resilient stable. The local bond market rallied impressively to +8.06% (ALBI) over the quarter, signalling the pricing out of political risk with 10-year SA government bond yields falling sharply to their current levels of 8.04%. February's budget offered significant fiscal consolidation with VAT being raised to 15%. National Treasury cut the size of its weekly bond auction by a third, and the SARB cut its benchmark repo rate by 25bps. The bond market momentum was further reinforced by Rating's Agency Moody's decision to keep the countries investment grade credit rating and improve the countries outlook to stable.

Looking ahead

We expect continued rate increases in the US and escalating trade friction to add further anxiety to global equity markets over the short to medium term. While the changing political and economic environment is a positive for South Africa, uncertainty remains around the direction of the land restitution debate and the implications for agricultural investment and property rights.

Disclaimer

Collective Investment Schemes in Securities (CIS) are generally medium to long term investments. The value of participatory interests may go down as well as up and past performance is not necessarily a guide to the future. An investment in the participations of a CIS in securities is not the same as a deposit with a banking institution. CIS are traded at ruling prices and can engage in borrowing and scrip lending. A schedule of fees and charges and maximum commissions is available on request from STANLIB Collective Investments (RF) Pty Ltd (the Manager). Commission and incentives may be paid and if so, would be included in the overall costs. Forward pricing is used. Fluctuations or movements in exchange rates may cause the value of underlying international investments to go up or down.
