Fund review

The fund returned -19.6% for the quarter, in line with its index, as the South African listed property sector saw a large correction mainly due to losses around Resilient REIT Ltd's share price manipulation allegations. Since inception the fund has performed well against its peer group and in-line with its tracking benchmark. The March FTSE/JSE rebalance saw no constituent changes being made to the index, whilst a few shares in issues and free float changes had been implemented. Though property was the best performing asset class in South Africa over the last 15 years, we remain positive on future returns as currency and income diversification has increased in the sector over the recent past. Whilst the market still awaits further clarity surrounding Resilient and its three sister companies, namely, Fortress REIT Ltd; Nepi Rockcastle and Greenbay Properties, we expect that in the long term the fund will provide healthy returns that surpass both government bonds and cash through the cycle.

Market overview

The global recovery across China, Japan, Europe and the United States continued to support commodity prices and emerging market currencies in the first quarter of 2018. The Fed hiked rates by 25 basis points in their March meeting and there was growing tension in world trade between the US and China. Higher rates and potential for a trade war triggered volatility in global equity markets which posted a loss of 1.15% (MSCI World) over the quarter. In South Africa, Cyril Ramaphosa was sworn in as South Africa's president and his State of the Nation address was favourably received. Over the quarter local property fell 19.61% (SAPY) and equities were down 5.97% (ALSI). Losses in equities were driven by poor performance of rand hedge stocks, and by a sell-off in Naspers, following the announcement it would be trimming its shareholding in Tencent Holdings. Property's decline was due to losses in the Resilient stable. The local bond market rallied impressively to +8.06% (ALBI) over the quarter, signalling the pricing out of political risk with 10-year SA government bond yields falling sharply to their current levels of 8.04%. February's budget offered significant fiscal consolidation with VAT being raised to 15%. National Treasury cut the size of its weekly bond auction by a third, and the SARB cut its benchmark repo rate by 25bps. The bond market momentum was further reinforced by Rating's Agency Moody's decision to keep the countries investment grade credit rating and improve the countries outlook to stable.

Looking ahead

We expect continued rate increases in the US and escalating trade friction to add further anxiety to global equity markets over the short to medium term. While the changing political and economic environment is a positive for South Africa, uncertainty remains around the direction of the land restitution debate and the implications for agricultural investment and property rights.

Disclaimer

Collective Investment Schemes in Securities (CIS) are generally medium to long term investments. The value of participatory interests may go down as well as up and past performance is not necessarily a guide to the future. ETFs trade on exchanges like stocks and are bought and sold at market prices which may differ to the net asset value of the ETF. Additional costs (e.g. brokerage fees) may be incurred for the investor by buying or selling the ETF on the exchange. An investment in the participations of a CIS in securities is not the same as a deposit with a banking institution. CIS are traded at ruling prices and can engage in borrowing and scrip lending. A schedule of fees and charges and maximum commissions is available on request from STANLIB Collective Investments (RF) Pty Ltd (the Manager). Commission and incentives may be paid and if so, would be included in the overall costs. Forward pricing is used. Fluctuations or movements in exchange rates may cause the value of underlying international investments to go up or down.
